INDEX TO VOL. LXI.

Abhrain an Bhuideil; A Song. By Hyacinth Con Carolan, 284.
Adventure, An Indian, 564.
Agricultural Change and Manufacturing Promise in Ireland, 238.
American Press, The Character of the, 365.
Annals, Family—Patrician Adventure and Catastrophe, 324.
Art Writing; Old Styles, 316.

Ballad Poetry of Ireland, An Essay on, 442.
Battle of the Alma, The, 272.
Bella Donna; or, the Cross before the Name. A Romance.—Chap. I., The Sunday Feast; Chap. II., Jenny Bell; Chap. III., The Rev. Charlton Wells; Chap. IV., A Duet; Chap. V., In the Drawing-room; Chap. VI., Mr. Franklyn's Sanctum, page 273. Chap. VII., Jenny Bell outcast; Chap. VIII., Domestic Battle; Chap. IX., Surrender; Chap. X., Jenny's Wanderings, page 391. Chap. XI., A Distracted Cleric; Chap. XII., Mr. Crowle; Chap. XIII., "The Sensible Girl;" Chap. XIV., "Charlotte versus Jenny," page 529. Chap. XV., "By Little and Little;" Chap. XVI., The Cross before the Name! Book the Second—Chap. I., Jenny Bell in Service; Chap. II., A Country Visiter, page 666. To be continued.
Biographers, Shakespeare's, 3.
British Columbia, A Cruise about, 482.
British Newspaper, The: The Penny Theory and its Solution, 361.
British Provincial Press, The Political and Social Value of, 371.
Brittany, Glimpses of, 286.

Catastrophe, A Patrician, 324.
Catullus, Part I., 539; Part II., 673.
Census Returns, The Irish; as affecting the Irish Church, 618.
Change, Agricultural in Ireland, traced, 238.
Character of Lord Raglan, 269.
Circy, Voltaire in, 168.
Contrast of Ireland in 1841 and 1861, with reference to National Prosperity, 244, 245.
Crimean War; Review of Mr. Kinglake's Volumes, 259.
Critics, Shakespeare's, 3.
Cruise about British Columbia, A, 482.

Death of Voltaire, 168.
Denmark, the Isles of; Customs of the People, &c., 499.
Dr. D'Aubigne's Genevan Volumes, reviewed, 568.
Duan na Claev, a Legend in Verse, by Hyacinth Con Carolan, 210.

Failure and Vices of the English Convict System, 116,
Fairy Drama, A, by T. Irwin, 461.
Family Annals, 324.
From Jaffa to Jerusalem, 477.

Genevan Republic, the Earlier Heroes of, and their Story, 568.
Genius, Voltaire's, examined, 93.
George Stephenson, his Biography, 405.
Glimpses of Brittany, 286.
Greek and Eastern Art, by Dr. Pentagram, 315.
Gresset, La Bruyere, and Rochefoucauld, 399.
Growth of British Journalism, 361.

Ireland as a Flax-Growing Country, 247.
Irish Church, The, Position and Claims of, 618.

Judicial Oath, The, 654.

La Bruyere, Gresset, and Rochefoucauld, 399.
Lady May's Mystery,—a Tale, 107.
Lament for Donnybrook, A, by the Last Minstrel of the Liberty, 331.
Lancashire Relief, Emigration as an Agency of, 595.
Legalia, the Judicial Oath, 654.
Leinster Folk-Lore, No. VI., 81.
Life and Eccentricities of George Sand, 217.
Life and Genius of Voltaire, 93.
Life in Russia, Sketches, 349.
Lines by Hon. Mrs. Norton to the Rev. Edward Coleridge, 150.
Literature, Macaronic, 379.

LITTLE FLAGGS—The Alms-house Foundling. Part II.—Chap. IX., A Letter from Tilby; Chap. X., The Halting Place; Chap. XI., Richard Drover's Business at Tilby; Chap. XII., Away from the Alms-house; Chap. XIII., The Arrival at the Inn; Chap. XIV., The Manor, page 69. Part III.—Chap. XV., George Raynor; Chap. XVI., Arthur Hopton; Chap. XVII., An Unwelcome Guest; Chap. XVIII., Perplexity; Chap. XIX., Mr. Raynor causes Surprise, page 188. Part IV.—Chap. XX., The Writing in the Book; Chap. XXI., A Letter; Lord Dulheadie; Chap XXII., David Wynne gets into Disgrace; Chap. XXIII., Mary Flaggs continues her Reading; Chap. XXIV., Distress of Mind; Chap. XXV., The Escape, page 301; Chap. XXVI., Two Letters; Chap. XXVII., A Remarkable Meeting; Chap. XXVIII., Disclosures of Crime; Chap. XXIX., Mr. Lipwell; Interview with David Wynne; Chap. XXX., The Winding-up, page 415.

Macaronic Literature, its Curiosities, 379.
Machiavelli, Niccolo, a Study of, 485.
Mackerel, Yatching for, at Guernsey, 233.
Manon, by Herr Vanderhaussen, 587.
Manufacturing Promise in Ireland, its directions indicated, 238.
Mildrington, the Barrister, reviewed, 703.
Minstrelsy, Rustic, in Ireland, 442.
Missionary Efforts and Progress of the Irish Church, 618.
Modern Novel and Romance, an Essay on, 436.
Modern Preaching as an Art and an Influence, 131.
Mystery, Lady May's,—a Tale, 107.

Novels, Reviewed:—"Chronicles of Carlingford," by Mrs. Oliphant—"A Daughter of Eve," by Hain Friswell—"Mildrington the Barrister"—"The House by the Church-yard"—"Barrington," by Charles Lever—"Thalatta"—"David Elginbrod," by George Macdonald—"Lady Audley's Secret," by Miss Braddon—"Orley Farm," by Mr. Trollope—"No Name," by Wilkie Collins.

Old Recollections and Modern Contrasts, by an Octogenarian, 428.

Patrician Adventure and Catastrophe, 324.
Peculiarities of Irish Emigration, 240, 241.
Penal System, the English; its Failure and its Vices, 116.
POEMS:—Lines to the Rev. Edward Coleridge, Rector of Maple-Durham, by the Hon. Mrs. Norton, 150; Duan Na Claev—the Legend of the Glaive, by Hyacinth Con Carolan, 210; Abhrain an Bhuideil—the Song of the Bottle of Whiskey, by Hyacinth Con Carolan, 284; A Lament for Donnybrook—a Lay of the Last Minstrel of the Liberty, 331; Songs of Ulster, in many Moods, No. II.—"Dirty Water and Clean," by Francis Davis, 347; "The Love Letter—a Fairy Drama," by T. Irwin, 461; Rustic Minstrelsy and Indigenous Ballad Poetry of Ireland, 442; Songs of Ulster, No. III.—"No Jock without a Jenny," by Francis Davis, 586.
Position and Claims of the Irish Church, The, considered, 618.
Potsdam, Voltaire in, 168.
Preaching, Modern, as an Art and an Influence, 131.
Professor Cairnes on America, Our Answer to, 604.

REVIEWS:—"Five Months on the Yang-tsze," by Thomas W. Blakiston, late Captain R.A., 24; "Female Life in Prison," by a Prison Matron, 120; "Charge of the Bishop of London in 1862;" "Preachers and Preaching—a Critique, with Practical Hints," by a "Dear Hearer," 131; "Irish Census and Agricultural Reports—the West of Ireland: its Existing Condition and Prospects;" "The Manufacturing Capabilities of Ireland," 238; "The Invasion of the Crimea," by A. W. Kinglake, 259; "Macaronéana Andra, overum Nouveaux Mélanges de Littérature Macaronique," par Octave Délepierre, 379; "Lives of the Engineers," by Samuel Smiles, 405; "Travels in British Columbia," by Captain C. E. Barrett-Lennard, 482; "History of the Reformation in Europe in the time of Calvin," by T. H. Merle D'Aubigne, vols. 1 and 2; "Geneva and France;" "The Life, Labours, and Writings of Calvin," by Felix Bungener, 568; "The Slave Power," by J. E. Cairnes, M.A., second edition, 604; "The Taeping Rebellion in China," by Commander Lindesay Brine, R.N., F.R.A.S., 30; "The Irish Convict System," by Baron Von Holtzendorff, of Berlin, 125; "On the Cultivation of Cotton in Italy," by M. Devincenzi, 252; "Chronicles of Carlingford," by Mrs. Oliphant, 437; "A Daughter of Eve," by Hain Friswell, 439; "The House by the Church-yard," 441; "Mildrington the Barrister," 703; Archdeacon Stopford on the Redistribution of the Revenues of the Irish Church, 618.
Roman Catholic Prelates, The "Declarations" of, on the Irish Church, 618.
Russian Sketches of Russian Life, 349.

Sand, George, Life, Eccentricities, and Literature of, 217.
Sark and Guernsey, Yachting for Mackerel off, 233.
Shakespeare, his Biographers and Critics, 3.

Slavery and Secession: Our Answer to Professor Cairnes, 604.
Songs of Ulster, in many Moods, by Francis Davis, No. II., 347; No. III., 586.
Song Writers—Moore, Beranger, Tennyson, by Dr. Pentagram, 599.
Souvestre and Brittany, 286.
Stephenson, George, The Life of, by Smiles, reviewed, 405.
STERNE AND HIS DAY. Book III.—"The Country Parson;" Chap. I., The Parson's Lady; Chap. II., Domestic Life; Chap. III., Sutton Vicarage; Chap. IV., Parson Yorick; Chap. V., Mr. Sterne plays upon the Bass Viol; Chap. VI., Mr. Sterne at his Easel; Chap. VII., Mr. Sterne in the Fields, page 54. Chap. VIII., Little Lydia the First; Chap. IX., "Crazy Castle;" Chap X., "My Cousin Anthony;" Chap. XI., Crazy Castle Library; Chap. XII., Yorick and Eugenius, page 199. Chap. XIII., The "Demoniacs;" Chap. XIV., Social Skirmishes; Chap. XV., Doctor Slop; Chap. XVI., Dr. Slop's Armoury; Chap. XVIII., Jacques Sterne, LL.D., again; Chap. XVIII., A Night Piece; Chap. XIX., Doctor Slop's Original, page 335. Chap. XX., Shandy Family Quarrels; Chap. XXI., Calumny exposed; Chap. XXII., Death of Jacques Sterne, LL D.; Chap. XXIII., Mr. Sterne a Wit; Chap. XXIV., The Charity Sermon; Chap. XXV., The Assize Sermon, page 468. Chap. XXVI., Mr. Sterne's Second Love, "Dear, dear Kitty;" Chap. XXVII., Tristram Written; Chap. XXVIII., Petty Annoyances, page 553. Book IV.—Chap. I., London Glories: The Fashionable Author; Chap. II., An Episcopal Patron; Chap. III., Advancement; Chap. IV., Fashionable Follies, page 706. To be continued.
Supernatural, The Science and Traditions of the, 687.

Taepings in China, The, Captain Blakiston's "Five Month's on the Yang-tsze," reviewed, 24.
Theatric Representation, Mechanism, and Decoration, 715.
The British Newspaper—the Penny Theory examined, 359.
The Case of the Irish Church stated, 618.
The Earlier Heroes of the Genevan Republic, 568.
The English Penal System Discussed, 116.
The Great Essayists of France, 514.
THE HOUSE BY THE CHURCHYARD: A Souvenir of Chapelizod. By Charles de Cresseron.—Chapter CXIII., The Wehr-wolf; Chap. CXIV., In which Dr. Toole and Dirty Davy confer in the Blue-room; Chap. CXV., What Dr. Sturk brought to mind; Chap. CXVI., Relating all that Dr. Toole heard at Mr. Luke Gamble's; Chap. CXVII., Dr. Pell refuses his fee, and Dr. Sturk leaves his bed-chamber; Chap. CXVIII., About the rightful Mrs. Nutter of the Mills, page 34. Chap. CXIX., In which the News reaches Mr. Mervyn; Chap. CXX., In which Obediah arrives; Chap. CXXI., In which Charles Archer puts himself upon the country; Chap. CXXII., In which Mr. Paul Dangerfield makes some frank admissions; Chap. CXXIII., In which the Story ends, page 151.
The Land of the Princess—Denmark and its People, 499.
The Legend of the Glaive; by Hyacinth Con Carolan, 210.

Voltaire, his Life and his Times, 93; Voltaire in London, Circy, Potsdam, Ferney; Death, 168.

Witchcraft, Magic, and Sorcery, 687.
WYLDER'S HAND: A Serial Tale. By the Author of "The House by the Churchyard." Part I., Chap. I., Relating how I drove through the village of Eglingden with Mark Wylder's Letter in my valise; Chap. II., In which I enter the Drawing-room; Chap. III., Concerning our Dinner-party at Brandon; Chap. IV., In which we go to the Drawing-room, and the party breaks up; Chap. V., In which my slumber is disturbed; Chap. VI., In which Dorcas Brandon speaks; Chap. VII., Relating how a London Gentleman appeared in Redman's Dell, page 634. To be continued.

Yang-tsze River, The, and Taëpings, in China, 24.